JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

This Document Relates to:
 ALL INDIRECT PURCHASER ACTIONS

21 PREAMBLE
 22 Pursuant to the Court's February 14, 2008 Order, the Third Consolidated Amended 23 Complaint amended and included claims the Court dismissed but gave Indirect-Purchaser Plaintiffs 24 leave to amend. Indirect-Purchaser Plaintiffs did not replead any claims dismissed without leave to 25 amend. However, by failing to replead these claims, Indirect-Purchaser Plaintiffs do not waive their 26 right to appeal this Court's dismissal with prejudice of those claims.

27 Plaintiffs, by their attorneys, bring this civil action for damages and injunctive relief on 28 behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated against the Defendants named herein, and

1 demanding a trial by jury, complain and allege as follows:

2 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

3 1. This complaint is filed under Section 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. §26, to obtain 4 injunctive relief for violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. §1, to recover damages 5 or restitution under state antitrust and consumer protection laws, and to recover the costs of suit, 6 including reasonable attorneys' fees, for the injuries that Plaintiffs and all others similarly situated 7 sustained as a result of the Defendants' violations of those laws.

8 2. The Court has jurisdiction over the federal claim under 28 U.S.C. §§1331 and 1337.
 9 The Court has jurisdiction over the state law claims under 28 U.S.C. §1367 because those claims 10 are so related to the federal claim that they form part of the same case or controversy. The Court 11 also has jurisdiction over the state law claims under 28 U.S.C. §1332 because the amount in 12 controversy for the Class exceeds $5,000,000, and there are members of the Class who are citizens 13 of a different state than the Defendants.

14 3. Venue is proper in this District under 15 U.S.C. §22 and 28 U.S.C. §1391 because 15 Defendants reside, transact business, or are found within this District, and a substantial part of the 16 events giving rise to the claims arose in this District.

17 4. The activities of the Defendants and their co-conspirators, as described herein, were 18 within the flow of, were intended to, and did have a substantial effect on the foreign and interstate 19 commerce of the United States. Defendants' conspiracy further substantially affected commerce in 20 California, and accordingly, Defendants and their co-conspirators have purportedly availed 21 themselves of California's laws.

22 DEFINITIONS

23 5. As used herein, the term "Static Random Access Memory" ("SRAM") includes all 24 types of static random access memory sold during the Class Period. SRAM is a type of memory 25 that is faster and more reliable than dynamic random access memory ("DRAM"). The term 26 "static" is derived from the fact that SRAM does not need to be refreshed like DRAM. While 27 DRAM supports access times of about 60 nanoseconds, SRAM can give access times of 10 28 nanoseconds. In addition, its cycle time is much shorter than that of DRAM because it does not need to pause between accesses.

6. As used herein, the term "computer" refers to both desktop and mobile computers (primarily laptop computers), workstations and servers.

7. As used herein, the term "Class Period" means the time period November 1, 1996 through at least December 31, 2006.

 10 interest; and any affiliate, legal representative, heir or assign of any 11 Defendant. Also excluded are any federal, state or local governmental 12 entities, any judicial officer presiding over this action and the 13 members of his/her immediate family and judicial staff, and any juror 14 assigned to this action (the “Tennessee Indirect Purchaser Class”),.

15 x. UTAH: All persons and entities in Utah who indirectly purchased 16 SRAM and/or products containing SRAM, for end use and not for 17 resale, that was manufactured and/or sold by one or more of the 18 Defendants during the Class Period. Specifically excluded from this 19 Class are the Defendants, the officers, directors or employees of any 20 Defendant; any entity in which any Defendant has a controlling 21 interest; and any affiliate, legal representative, heir or assign of any 22 Defendant. Also excluded are any federal, state or local governmental 23 entities, any judicial officer presiding over this action and the 24 members of his/her immediate family and judicial staff, and any juror
 25 assigned to this action (the “New Hampshire Indirect Purchaser 26 Class”),.

27 y. WEST VIRGINIA: All persons and entities in West Virginia who 28 indirectly purchased SRAM and/or products containing SRAM, for

1 end use and not for resale, that was manufactured and/or sold by one 2 or more of the Defendants during the Class Period. Specifically 3 excluded from this Class are the Defendants, the officers, directors or 4 employees of any Defendant; any entity in which any Defendant has a 5 controlling interest; and any affiliate, legal representative, heir or 6 assign of any Defendant. Also excluded are any federal, state or local 7 governmental entities, any judicial officer presiding over this action 8 and the members of his/her immediate family and judicial staff, and 9 any juror assigned to this action (the “West Virginia Indirect 10 Purchaser Class”),.

11 z. WISCONSIN: All persons and entities in Wisconsin who indirectly 12 purchased SRAM and/or products containing SRAM, for end use and 13 not for resale, that was manufactured and/or sold by one or more of 14 the Defendants during the Class Period. Specifically excluded from 15 this Class are the Defendants, the officers, directors or employees of 16 any Defendant; any entity in which any Defendant has a controlling 17 interest; and any affiliate, legal representative, heir or assign of any 18 Defendant. Also excluded are any federal, state or local governmental 19 entities, any judicial officer presiding over this action and the 20 members of his/her immediate family and judicial staff, and any juror 21 assigned to this action (the “Wisconsin Indirect Purchaser Class”).
 22 and

23 aa. DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA: All persons and entities in the District 24 of Columbia who indirectly purchased SRAM and/or products 25 containing SRAM, for personal, family or household use, that was 26 manufactured and/or sold by one or more of the Defendants during 27 the Class Period. Specifically excluded from this Class are the 28 Defendants, the officers, directors or employees of any Defendant;

any entity in which any Defendant has a controlling interest; and any affiliate, legal representative, heir or assign of any Defendant. Also excluded are any federal, state or local governmental entities, any judicial officer presiding over this action and the members of his/her immediate family and judicial staff, and any juror assigned to this action (the “District of Columbia Indirect Purchaser Class”).

140. This action has been brought and may be properly maintained as a class action pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure for the following reasons:

- a. The Class is ascertainable and there is a well-defined community of interest among the members of the Class;
- b. Based upon the nature of the trade and commerce involved and the number of indirect purchasers of SRAM, Plaintiffs believe that the members of the Class number in the thousands, and therefore is sufficiently numerous that joinder of all Class members is not practicable;
- c. Plaintiffs’ claims are typical of the claims of the members of the Class because Plaintiffs indirectly purchased SRAM from one or more of the Defendants or their co-conspirators, and therefore Plaintiffs’ claims arise from the same common course of conduct giving rise to the claims of the members of the Class and the relief sought is common to the Class;
- d. The following common questions of law or fact, among others, exist as to the members of the Class:
 - i. whether Defendants formed and operated a combination or conspiracy to fix, raise, maintain or stabilize the prices of, or allocate the market for, SRAM;
 - ii. whether the combination or conspiracy caused SRAM prices to be higher than they would have been in the absence of

- Defendants' conduct;
- iii. the operative time period of Defendants' combination or conspiracy;
- iv. whether Defendants' conduct caused injury to the business or property of Plaintiffs and the members of the Class;
- v. the appropriate measure of the amount of damages suffered by the Class;
- vi. whether Defendants' conduct violates Section 1 of the Sherman Act;
- vii. whether Defendants' conduct violates Sections 16720 and 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code;
- viii. whether Defendants' conduct violates the antitrust, unfair competition, and consumer protection laws of the other states as alleged below; and
- ix. the appropriate nature of class-wide equitable relief.

e. These and other questions of law or fact which are common to the members of the Class predominate over any questions affecting only individual members of the Class;

f. After determination of the predominate common issues identified above, if necessary or appropriate, the Class can be divided into logical and manageable subclasses;

g. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class in that Plaintiffs have no interests that are antagonistic to other members of the Class and have retained counsel competent and experienced in the prosecution of class actions and antitrust litigation to represent themselves and the Class;

h. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this litigation since individual joinder of all damaged Class Members is impractical; the damages suffered by individual Class Members are relatively small, thus, absent the availability of class action procedures, it would not be feasible for Class Members to redress the wrongs done to them;

- i. Defendants have acted, and refused to act, on grounds generally applicable to the Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief with respect to the Class as a whole; and
- j. In the absence of a class action, Defendants would be unjustly enriched because they would be able to retain the benefits and fruits of their wrongful conduct.

141. The Claims in this case are also properly certifiable under the laws of the State of California, and of the other individual states identified below in the Fourth and Fifth Claims for Relief.

NATURE OF THE MARKET

142. Throughout the period of time covered by this Complaint, Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in the business of manufacturing, marketing and selling SRAM throughout the United States. The sale of SRAM constituted a multi-billion dollar business on an annual basis. For example, worldwide SRAM sales were estimated at approximately $3.3 billion in 2003, and at approximately $4.1 billion in 2004, 50% of which were in the United States.

143. In 1998, the top six manufacturers accounted for approximately 63% of SRAM sales, and the top nine manufacturers accounted for approximately 79% of such sales. In both 2003 and 2004, the top six manufacturers accounted for approximately 75% of SRAM sales; the top eight manufacturers accounted for approximately 82% of SRAM sales. In 2004, the top nine manufacturers sold approximately 84% of all SRAM. The Defendants are the largest manufacturers and sellers of SRAM in the United States.

144. The shares of the leading SRAM manufacturers in 2003 were as follows: Samsung 32.5%; Renesas 15.0%; Cypress 11.6%; Toshiba 7.9%; NEC 7.2%; Hynix 3.7%.

145. The SRAM industry has been subject to consolidation during the Class Period. For

1 example, on December 26, 2002, Hitachi, Ltd. and Mitsubishi Electric Corporation announced an 2 agreement to combine their semiconductor operations into a new company, Renesas Technology
 3 Corp., by April 1, 2003. In the Spring of 2003, Micron announced that it was exiting the SRAM 4 market and agreed to sell its synchronous SRAM product inventory to Cypress.

5 146. Defendants operate manufacturing factories called fabrication plants or “fabs.” These 6 fabrication plants make “wafers” that are cut into individual chips, called “dies.” Once the dies 7 have electronics printed on them, the chip is complete.

8 147. SRAM has no free-standing use; it must be inserted into a device, such as a computer, 9 to serve any function. Because SRAM has no independent utility, the value of, and thus demand 10 for, SRAM is derived through its storage capabilities for products that need volatile memory.

11 148. SRAM is a commodity, with commodity margins. The SRAM market is 12 characterized by price inelasticity. In fact, Defendants refer to “commodity SRAM” to mean a 13 common memory type of SRAM.

14 149. When SRAM is purchased by consumers as part of an electronic device, it is a 15 distinct, physically-discrete, hardware element of the end-use product and is traceable throughout 16 the chain of distribution to the end user. SRAM does not undergo any alterations as it moves 17 through the chain of distribution. SRAM is identifiable by a part number, and bears a unique serial 18 number that would permit tracing. Manufacturers such as Cypress, Hynix, Micron, NEC, Renesas, 19 Samsung, and Toshiba manufacture SRAM that is clearly identifiable by a specific, discrete part or 20 model number, and that bears a unique serial number that is directly traceable to the specific 21 manufacturing defendant. Photos of samples of SRAM from Samsung, NEC and Micron are 22 depicted below.

23

25

26

27

28

150. The SRAM manufacturing market is dominated by a handful of leading manufacturers – the Defendants in this case. The market for the manufacture and sale of SRAM is subject to high manufacturing and technological barriers to entry. Efficient fabrication plants are large and costly.

151. Defendants' direct-purchaser customers include the world's largest computer manufacturers, such as Hewlett Packard, IBM, Apple, Dell and Sun Microsystems; microprocessor manufacturers, such as Intel; computer equipment manufacturers such as Cisco; and cellular phone manufacturers such as Motorola and Ericsson.

152. During the Class Period, the markets for the manufacture of the end-use products in

1 which SRAM is incorporated were subject to vigorous price competition. The SRAM and end-use 2 markets are therefore inextricably linked, and cannot be considered separately. Participants in the 3 SRAM industry were well aware of this intimate relationship, and utilized end-use industry 4 forecasts to predict sales of their own products.

5 153. The end-use industries were all subject to vigorous price competition during the Class
 6 Period. The SRAM direct purchasers had very thin net margins. They were therefore at the mercy 7 of their component costs, so that increases in component costs, such as the price of SRAM, lead to 8 quick, corresponding price increases in the end-use products.

9 154. SRAM is a significant cost component of end-use electronic products using memory 10 chips. Because of the thin margins for those electronic products, the original equipment 11 manufacturers (“OEM”) could not absorb any part of the increased cost of SRAM.

12 155. The cost of memory chips, including SRAM, to direct-purchaser OEMs is an 13 important component in the selling price of that OEM’s electronic products. If the cost that an 14 OEM pays for SRAM increases, that directly affects the prices of the products sold by the OEM.

15 156. As the market for computers, system servers, and other electronic devices was highly 16 competitive during the Class Period, whenever an OEM paid more for memory chips, including 17 SRAM, that OEM passed on 100% of that increased cost to its customers, who, in turn, passed on 18 at least 100% of the increased SRAM costs to the end-user consumers, such as the Indirect-19 Purchaser Plaintiffs and the Class Members.

20 157. Beginning in 1998 and continuing through much of 2001, SRAM prices rose, due to 21 the effects of the industry-wide collusion alleged herein and which is being investigated by the 22 DOJ. During 2000 alone, the average selling price of SRAM in the United States increased by 23 35%—from $3.93 in 1999 to approximately $5.31 in 2000. SRAM prices experienced an increase 24 in 2002, and again in 2003 and subsequent years, which was the result of the Defendants’ and their 25 co-conspirators’ price-fixing conspiracy.

26 158. California is the largest market in the United States for SRAM and is the world-wide 27 center of the computer industry and other industries that depend upon the SRAM markets.
 28 Statements concerning the prices and market conditions for SRAM were disseminated by 1 Defendants from and into California on a regular and continuous basis.

2 DEFENDANTS' ILLEGAL CONDUCT

3 159. In October of 2006, the DOJ subpoenaed several companies in connection with an 4 investigation of cartel activity in the SRAM industry, which included: Samsung, Cypress, Hynix, 5 Micron, Mitsubishi, NEC, Renesas, and Toshiba. Several of the companies being investigated—
 6 Hynix, Micron and Samsung—pled guilty to price-fixing in the DRAM industry and paid
 7 substantial fines to the DOJ for those unlawful activities ($300 million for Samsung and $185 8 million for Hynix). Micron, another major SRAM manufacturer, was the amnesty applicant in the 9 DRAM price-fixing investigation and paid a substantial fine.

10 160. The DOJ's SRAM investigation is a criminal one. This fact is significant because, 11 according to Chapter III, Section C.5 of the DOJ's Antitrust Division Manual, “[c]urrent Division 12 policy is to proceed by criminal investigation and prosecution in cases involving horizontal, per se 13 unlawful agreements such as price-fixing, bid rigging and horizontal customer and territorial 14 allocations.”

15 161. Several of the individuals employed by Defendants who pled guilty to criminal 16 felonies in the DRAM criminal case investigation also had pricing responsibility for SRAM. For 17 Defendant Samsung, these include: (1) Tom Quinn, Vice-President of Marketing for Memory 18 Products; (2) Y. H. Park, Vice-President of Sales who had responsibility for U.S. memory pricing; 19 and (3) I. U. Kim, Vice-President of Marketing. Those from Defendant Hynix who pled guilty to 20 felony price-fixing violations in DRAM and who also had responsibility for SRAM pricing 21 included its Senior Vice President and General Manager of Worldwide Sales and Marketing, D.S.
 22 Kim; its Director of Global Strategic Accounts, C.K. Chung; and its Senior Manager and Vice 23 President for Product Marketing and Vice President for Operations, C.Y. Choi.

24 162. Beginning at a date unknown to the Plaintiffs, but at least as early as November 1, 25 1996, and continuing thereafter to at least October 15, 2006, Defendants and their co-conspirators 26 engaged in a contract, combination, or conspiracy, the effect of which was to raise the prices at 27 which they sold SRAM to artificially-inflated and supra-competitive levels.

28 163. Defendants, through their officers, directors and employees, effectuated the aforesaid

1 contract, combination, or conspiracy between themselves and their co-conspirators by, among other 2 things:

- 3 a. participating in meetings and conversations, including through various 4 trade associations consortiums, and working groups, to discuss the 5 prices of SRAM in the United States;
- 6 b. agreeing, during those meetings and conversations, to charge prices at 7 specified levels and otherwise to increase and maintain prices of 8 SRAM sold in the United States;
- 9 c. issuing price announcements and quotations in accordance with the 10 agreements reached; and
- 11 d. selling SRAM in the United States at non-competitive prices.

12 164. In furtherance of this conspiracy to fix prices, the SRAM manufacturers engaged in a 13 systematic and continuous exchange of confidential pricing, quantity and other business 14 information. Defendants and their co-conspirators communicated extensively with one another to 15 discuss and exchange information about SRAM, including the market and prices for SRAM in 16 general, as well as related to specific OEMs.

17 165. Throughout the class period, representatives of the defendants communicated 18 personally or over the telephone or in writing in the United States to discuss SRAM business, 19 including SRAM pricing. Such communications occurred in or about: March 1997; May 1998; 20 December 1998; August 1999; October 1999; November 1999; December 1999; March 2000; 21 April 2000; July 2000; August 2000; October 2000; November 2000; March 2001; April 2001; 22 May 2001; June 2001; July 2001; October 2001; November 2001; January 2002; February 2002; 23 March 2002; April 2002; June 2002; July 2002; November 2002; February 2003; April 2003; May 24 2003; June 2003; July 2003; December 2003; during 2004 (the exact months being unknown to 25 Plaintiffs) and September 2005.

26 166. More specifically, representatives of one or more Defendants communicated on the 27 following dates about the subjects stated:

- 28 a. Ken Yap of Samsung had direct contact with Cypress. In a May 1998

1 email to his colleague, he asked, “I wonder if you have a wish list as 2 we discussed in the previous meeting. I’ll have lunch with my buddy
 3 at Cypress on Thursday.” Il Ung Kim responds, “I am open to talk 4 about anything related to SRAM business. One curious topic could 5 be mini-BGA cost, capacity and ramp-up plan.”

6 b. In September 1999, CK Chung sent an e-mail to Gary Swanson and 7 others at Hynix regarding October pricing for Strategic Accounts and 8 stated that he had “chatted with Samsung guys this morning” and 9 learned about Samsung’s memory prices to certain OEMs. Regarding 10 the price increases contemplated by the e-mail, he says, “Hopefully 11 [sic] this price increases have our strategic customers reduce their 12 purchases, we can move more products in the spot, spot market price 13 down reducing the gap with contract price, etc, etc. Let’s hope the 14 best.”

15 c. John Bugee of Samsung had direct contact with Cypress as well. He 16 sent an e-mail to his colleagues in October 1999 which contained 17 LPSRAM pricing to Intel he received from Cypress. He spoke to 18 Cypress again and in March 13, 2000 reported on information, 19 including pricing, he learned when he “spoke to Cypress today 20 regarding their LPSRAM program with Intel.” He spoke to Cypress 21 again on April 28, 2000 and reported that he “encouraged Cypress to 22 significantly increase (not decrease) their price” to Intel. Bugee also 23 shared pricing information he received concerning Micron, NEC, and 24 Toshiba. Mr. Bugee again spoke to Cypress on October 2, 1999 25 regarding pricing to Intel, and reported back to Samsung that 26 Cypress “[c]urrent pricing is in the $6.00 range.” On October 21, 27 1999, Mr. Bugee again spoke to Cypress, and reported to Samsung 28 that “Cypress has quoted Y2K pricing of: 2M: Presently very low

$3.00 range, and sub-$2.00 in Q400. 4M: $6.00.” Mr. Bugee further reported that “Cypress acknowledged that the market is tightening, and that customers are requesting upsides. This might cause them to re-adjust their forward pricing upwards, as well as continue to minimize capacity commitments to Intel.” Bugee also spoke directly to Cypress in August 2000 about prices to Intel and others. His direct communications continued into 2001. In March 2001, HD Park asked Bugee and Steve Wienger to let him know how much the competition sold in January and February since they had “whole competition information.”

- d. In November 1999, a new Samsung employee traveled to the United States and met with representatives of Micron and Cypress. J.H. Ko, wrote that he, “met to discuss the Sync SRAM market.”
- e. Bugee spoke directly to his contacts at Etron in December 1999 regarding LPSRAM pricing. He spoke to his contacts again in July 2000, when he e-mailed, “I spoke to Etron this morning. I am pleased to report the following ...” and provided intelligence about Etron’s LPSRAM products and pricing to Intel. Bugee spoke again to his contact at Etron in October of that year. Bugee spoke to his Etron contact in November 2000, regarding among other things, prices to Intel. Based on the information he received directly from Etron about pricing to Intel, he suggests that the Etron “price” that Intel will try to use to get Samsung to move its price is meaningless and that Samsung should stay firm at its higher price. Bugee’s communications continued to 2001. In addition, Woung Moo Lee, Senior Manager, Worldwide SRAM Marketing, also had direct communications with Etron regarding pricing.
- f. In July 2000, Bagbee of Samsung sent around competitive

1 information. Upon receiving it, his colleague, H.D. Park, Manager
 2 SRAM Marketing, replied, “can we share this kind of competitive 3 info, with price info, once per month at least!!!”

4 g. Mike Black of Micron Marketing had good friends at all of Micron’s 5 so-called competitors. For example, in May 2001, Micron was 6 looking for information on Samsung and Cypress’ datasheets for 7 various SRAM. Mike Black was asked to get some information by 8 Tom Pawlowski, another Micron employee. Another of Black’s co-9 workers reported that Black was “pinging his contacts for 10 information” but it was not being received quickly enough for 11 Pawlowski, who directed Black to “please get the Cypress and 12 Samsung info directly from our contacts there? Looks like this is a 13 real hot potato now.” On October 26, 2001, Micron’s Black reported 14 to Micron and David Carr of Silicon Access regarding discussions 15 with Samsung, and wrote that “[m]y conversations with them would 16 put their road map similar to ours. Pricing for 18M parts out in 2004 17 around $20 for a 400MHz and in 2005 would move to $15 range...” 18 [ellipsis in original].

19 h. On June 15, 2001, Hee Sang Yoon, a Hynix employee in charge of 20 SRAM Strategic Marketing, sent an e-mail to SRAM Manufacturers, 21 including among others, Micron, suggesting that they meet for an 22 “SRAM Manufacturer Meeting” on a regular basis. Hynix states that 23 “suppliers can control the market situation if they have accurate 24 information on customer and market demand in general.” According 25 to Hynix, it “would be a golden opportunity for us (SRAM vendors) 26 since we could discuss how we could manage the ever changing 27 market situation by exchanging our views on Today’s SRAM 28 Market.” The proposed meeting agenda included: SRAM Market

1 Analysis by Application, Sales Performance and Forecast, Production 2 Volume by Density, world wide supply forecasts by manufacturer and 3 product roadmaps.

4 i. Tom Pawlowski of Micron sent a Hynix e-mail to Jerry Johnson and 5 Mike Black with the following note: “Hmmm. Interesting”, Black’s
 6 response to the request to have an official meeting to discuss SRAM 7 prices was “Wow”.

8 j. Tom Pawlowski must have replied to Yoon at Hynix, who sent 9 Pawlowski an e-mail on June 25, 2001, “I think we can make good 10 time to get suppliers’ status which you wanted it. In my mind, 11 someone who is in charge of marketing, they need two information 12 one is demand forecast and the other one is supplier forecast...” He 13 suggests that Hynix can get “a lot of demand information” and 14 proposes a private SRAM meeting between the two companies. The 15 next day, June 26, Pawlowski responds to Hee Sang suggesting that 16 he contact Mike Black. On June 27, 2001, Micron’s Black confirmed 17 to Hynix’ Yoon that “I would like to have an opportunity to meet 18 with you and discuss this SRAM market.” That same day, Yoon 19 wrote back and suggested that they meet in Korea.

20 k. In October 2001, J. M. Sung of Hynix met with a Cypress employee, 21 Mario Martinez in California about “SRAM product development & 22 Market.”

23 l. Similarly, Mike Black sent an email in January 2002 to Jerry Johnson 24 of Micron containing information that he had received on Samsung’s 25 worldwide synchronous SRAM sales and promised to send the 26 Cypress data and GSI Technology, Inc. (“GSI”) information “when 27 they get back from Japan ...” Jerry Johnson asked Black to put the 28 information into a chart and Black replied, “I will, but I want to wait

1 until my Samsung buddy gets back, he has the numbers for 2 everybody!"

3 m. On January 17, 2002, Mike Black (Micron Marketing) provided 4 detailed information regarding Samsung's "worldwide sync SRAM 5 sales" to Jerry Nalywajko (Micron Tactical Marketing Mgr.) and 6 other Micron employees.

7 n. Jack Truong of Samsung wrote to Mark D'Arcangelo, Product
 8 Marketing Manager for SRAM at Hitachi, in February 2002
 9 providing Samsung's SRAM revenue numbers for low power, async 10 fast and sync, and asking for Hitachi's revenue numbers. In response, 11 D'Arcangelo asked why Samsung's async number was down from 12 previous month and the sync number doubled and Truong provided 13 an explanation involving who the buyer was and other information.
 14 D'Arcangelo responded with Hitachi's numbers, and again asked 15 Truong about the Samsung numbers. Truong provided additional 16 explanations. They also asked one another about exchanging the 17 competitors' latest roadmaps, which, they both did. On June 18, 18 2002, Hitachi's D'Arcangelo emailed Hitachi's "SRAM numbers" to 19 Truong as follows: "Low Power: $435k Async: $628k Sync: $17k 20 * Sun problem." On September 6, 2002, Hitachi's Toshihiko Seki 21 wrote to Samsung's Truong regarding Low Power SRAM, and asked 22 "Are you able to share with me some of the low power SRAM 23 revenue number?" and "Can you share some data?" and shared that 24 "we do roughly 7M$/mo in worldwide right now and wafer business 25 is about 2M$. . . "

26 o. David Bagby, Samsung's Director of SRAM Sales, had lunch with 27 "the NEC America guys" in March 2002 regarding, among other 28 things, the SRAM prices to Intel. Bagby provided "key" information

1 from the lunch to his colleague Woung Moo Lee (Senior Manager, 2 Worldwide SRAM and MCP Marketing, Semiconductor Sales 3 Division, Samsung Electronics Company, Ltd.), who thanked him for 4 the “valuable” information. After his conversation with the “NEC 5 guys,” Bagby was able to tell Lee that with respect to 2M low power 6 SRAM, “I think we have a chance to raise this price come April 1.
 7 My feeling [is] a small increase will trigger the thought that maybe 8 things will get tight and they better be careful.” NEC also reported to 9 Bagby in that conversation that NEC had excess 4M low power 10 SRAM that Intel did not want, and the parties discussed the TAM.
 11 Bagby concluded “Keep price at $1.80.” On April 17, 2002, 12 Samsung’s Bagby wrote to Takahiro Kambe of Hitachi and stated “I 13 would like to give you WW [world-wide] data on SRAM from all 14 competitors would you like that.”

- 15 p. In April 2002, Micron’s Jerry Nalywajko sent an e-mail around 16 Micron with SRAM competitor ASP (“average selling price”) and 17 other data as well as data on the low power SRAM market. He told 18 his colleagues that while the data seemed reliable, “Mike Black will 19 double ck on this with his sources.”
- 20 q. In July 2002, Black reached out to Mike Pearson at Samsung to see 21 whether Samsung would answer a number of questions about its 22 SRAM manufacturing processes and told Pearson that “this may 23 seem too sensitive, but we would be willing to exchange this level of 24 information.” At first, Samsung “politely decline[d] … [the] offer to 25 share data” but two days later had a “change of heart” and let Black 26 know that he would have his competitor’s sensitive data in a few 27 days.
- 28 r. In a November 21, 2002 e-mail to Jan Dupreez (Micron), Mike Black

1 (Micron) provided comparative SSRAM specifications for Micron's 2 top two competitors, Samsung and Cypress.

3 s. In February 2003, Truong (Samsung) sent an e-mail to Goto at NEC 4 thanking him for their conversation and attaching PSRAM roadmaps.
 5 Goto responded in kind with NEC's latest roadmaps. Both asked the 6 other to keep the information confidential. On May 1, 2003, 7 Samsung's Truong asked NEC's Goto "Would you like to exchange 8 sync SRAM & Low power SRAM presentation between NEC and 9 Samsung," and NEC's Goto responded that same day that "I have 10 absolutely no problem to exchange an [updated] roadmap . . ."

11 t. Samsung's Jack Truong met with Rob Sloan of Cypress on June 11, 12 2003 regarding SRAM. After that meeting, Sloan sent an e-mail to 13 Truong attaching Cypress's current SRAM presentation and 14 requesting that Truong forward Samsung's to him.

15 u. In September 2005, Y. S. Lee of Samsung wrote to Hiroyuki Goto of 16 NEC and Clint Min of Renesas following up on their conversation 17 during a "cigarette break" at a trade association meeting earlier in the 18 day, and seeking a private dinner to discuss QDR II (SRAM). The 19 dinner was set up for September 23, 2005. Before the dinner, Goto of 20 NEC e-mailed his colleague at NEC to see what specific information 21 was needed from Renesas, "I am having informal dinner with John 22 and Clint tonight. Is there anything you want me to hear from them?"
 23 S. J. Han of NEC asked Goto to get some information about Samsung
 24 and Renesas SRAM QDR II+ and S3 and "run rates."

25 167. In addition to the communications among the Defendants listed above, Defendants 26 distributed various press releases and public statements designed to mislead the public about the 27 reasons for SRAM price increases of SRAM. For example on October 11, 1999, Electronic Buyers 28 News reported:

a. “[D]uring a conference call last week to financial analysts to report its quarterly earnings, Don Baldwin, vice president of Micron Technology, Boise, Idaho, said the company ‘is on allocation across the board on all its memory products-128-Mbit and 64-Mbit DRAMs, flash, and SRAMs. We’re forced to turn away a large amount of business, and most of the other DRAM manufacturers are doing the same.’”

168. On January 13, 2000, Purchasing Magazine, quoted Avo Kanadjian, vice president of memory marketing for Samsung Electronics, as follows: "Samsung's capacity utilization is at an all-time high, . . . All of my product lines are fighting for capacity allocation. Flash would kill for additional capacity. SRAM we can't supply enough of because of cell phones."

169. The Defendants' earnings conference calls, transcripts of which are available online in written and audio form, also revealed many misleading public statements about the pricing of SRAM. For example:

- a. On July 18, 2002 Cypress Semiconductor Corp. Q2 2002 Earnings Call: "Follow Up: Samsung is shifting production from older DRAM to SRAM, thoughts? . . .

Answer: . . . Right now, relationships, products are what's required to hang in there until capacity, supply and demand are equal, it's a non-event. It won't change pricing, the customer is driving pricing." Cypres participants on the call were T.J. Rodgers (President and CEO), Emmanuel Hernandez (VP, Finance & Administration, and CFO), and Ralph Schmitt (EVP, Sales and Marketing.)

b. During the July 15, 2004 Cypress Semiconductor Corp. Q2 2004 Earnings Call: Ralph Schmitt (Cypress EVP, Sales and Marketing) stated: "Our SRAM pricing in Q3 will be up, primarily due to the fact that we've negotiated that pricing with major contracts at our customers back in the May and June timeframe. . . T. J. Rodgers

1 (Cypress President and CEO) stated: "On pricing, our average selling 2 price last quarter was $1.38, up from $1.36 the quarter before that, 3 $1.33 the quarter before, $1.28 a quarter before that and that was the 4 bottom of the recession. So we've been actively raising prices. Right 5 now we are not actively raising prices, but many of the price raises 6 we've done have yet to really show up in revenue, so we still expect 7 favorable news on ASPs going forward, although we're not, as I said, 8 currently raising prices more."

9 c. On a January 26, 2006 Cypress Semiconductor Corp. Q4 2005
 10 Earnings Call: T.J. Rodgers (President, CEO and Director) noted: 11 "What's happened is the way we run our fabs, the value added 12 products always get everything they need and then we fill up the rest 13 of our fabs to their capability to make with SRAMs and right now 14 we're 33% short, or 25% short on an $80mm demand and it's only the 15 third week of the quarter. So we're booked up, we're in the process of 16 pushing out some deliveries to the least profitable segments of the 17 SRAM business. So we're going through the standard up turn 18 maneuver of focusing on the best of our SRAM business to try to 19 raise margins. So your question about double ordering is something 20 we don't consider right now, what the mode we're in right now is 21 we're calling our strategic accounts, we're telling them about the 22 issues with SRAMs and we're asking them to tell us exactly what they 23 need to stay alive and we are scheduling less than what they have 24 ordered and we're making sure that their lines stay up and we don't 25 contribute to a lines down situation. With regard to new business, we 26 are raising our prices so that demand and supply will come into 27 equilibrium. Double ordering always happens. I always say I don't 28 think we have it because we have visibility. We really don't and I am

1 sure we have it right now, but for right now what we ship is more of a 2 negotiation with our customers than what the backlog is.”

3 d. Additionally, during a July 20, 2006 Cypress Semiconductor Corp.
 4 Q2 2006 Earnings Call: T.J. Rodgers (Cypress President and CEO) 5 stated: “Pricing did go up for SRAM last quarter. We have an active 6 price raising program going on. . . . If you look at some of the more 7 popular products, our 16 megabit SRAM, which is a high profit 8 margin generator for us, went up to 931 from 915. So we drove that 9 set (inaudible) faster (multiple speakers). Okay, let me give you a 10 different number. That's a kind of aggregate number, which is not as 11 good. Our fast SRAMs -- those are high-speed 10 nanoseconds 12 asynchronous RAMs -- the 16-meg is up to $15.25 for an ASP. In 13 micropower, we raised the ASP in our 16-meg there, we raised the 14 ASP in the 4-meg, which has been a commodity product to $1.40 15 from $1.04. So across the board, when we are allocating, one of the 16 things we say is -- how many would you like and how much are you 17 willing to pay? So we have been asked to sell SRAMs below our cost 18 to stay alive in the past and we're not hesitating now to take whatever 19 profit the market will bear when we have SRAMs that are needed and 20 there aren't enough of in the world.”

21 e. On a January 25, 2007 Q4 2006 Cypress Semiconductor Earnings 22 Conference Call – Final, Chris Seams, (EVP, Marketing, Sales and 23 Manufacturing, Cypress Semiconductor) stated: “. . . Let me cover a 24 few of the usual indices for the fourth quarter. Revenue splits by 25 geography were not changed significantly, Asia remained number one 26 at 38% of sales, followed by North America at 31%, Europe at 23%, 27 and Japan at 9% of sales. No single customer was greater than 10% of 28 sales. Units for the quarter were 158 million, down slightly, mostly

1 from the PC Clock divestiture and shipping more high density 2 synchronous static RAMs. ASP was a high point for the quarter. We 3 enjoyed a continued strong pricing environment. ASP was $1.22, up 4 significantly from the third quarter ASP of $1.13. This is due to the 5 SRAM market consolidation and a larger percent of our revenue 6 coming from proprietary parts where customers price on value.”

7 170. In reality, price increases in the SRAM market were the result of careful collaboration 8 and manipulation by the SRAM manufacturers in order to raise market prices.

9 171. In addition to the communications listed above, Defendants attended various trade 10 associations meetings in the state of California, at which meetings they discussed SRAM pricing 11 with the purpose and effect of raising, fixing and stabilizing SRAM prices. Defendants’ 12 participation in the trade associations, industry consortiums, and working groups was recognized as 13 a way to communicate with so-called competitors. Such meetings occurred at the following trade 14 associations:

15 a. The JEDEC Solid State Technology Association (“JEDEC”) (formerly 16 the Joint Electron Device Engineering Council) is the semiconductor 17 engineering standardization body of the Electronic Industries 18 Alliance, a trade association representing segments of the electronic 19 industry. All Defendants are members of this group and have 20 representatives on various of its committees and subcommittees, 21 which meet regularly. The JEDEC touts the benefits of membership 22 in the organization as including the ability to “take advantage of 23 networking opportunities” and “make valuable contacts throughout 24 the industry.” The activities of the JEDEC provided the Defendants 25 with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM. The 26 defendants participated in JEDEC committee and board meetings in 27 California on the following dates: 11/5/01; 11/6/01; 11/7/01; and 28 11/8/01.;

- b. The QDR (Quad Data Rate) Consortium (“QDRC”) was formed in February of 1999 to jointly develop QDR SRAM, a type of high speed SRAM. Initial members included, on information and belief, Defendants Cypress, Micron, NEC and IDT. In March 2001, Samsung joined the consortium and in September 2001, Hitachi joined as well. The nature of the market and the relationships of the Defendants create the likelihood that there were other Defendants, not yet known to Plaintiffs, who were members of the consortium. The QDRC held regular meetings both in person and telephonically, at which members, and perhaps others, attended. The activities of the QDRC provided the Defendants with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM. The defendants participated in QDRC meetings in California on the following dates: 4/21/01; 6/5/01; 7/19/01; 9/27/01; 11/8/01; 5/14/02; 4/3/03; 6/10/03; 10/28/03; 11/20/03; 12/16/03; 10/15/04; 12/13/04; 1/28/05; 2/24/05; 3/24/05; 4/28/05; 5/20/05; 6/29/05; 8/2/05; 9/05; 11/15/05; 1/19/06;
- c. The SigmaRAM Consortium was founded in July of 1999 to jointly develop high-speed asynchronous SRAM for networking and telecommunications applications. By 2003, its members included Sony, Mitsubishi and Toshiba and Alliance Semiconductor, GSI, and ISSI. The activities of the SigmaRAM Consortium provided the Defendants with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM;
- d. The Common Specifications for Mobile RAM (COSMORAM) Group, consisting of Fujitsu, NEC and Toshiba, was formed in 2002 to jointly examine common specifications for mobile RAM. The activities of the COSMORAM Group provided the Defendants with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM;
- e. The CellularRAM Working Group (“CWG”) was initially formed by

1 Defendants Cypress, Micron and one of the guilty parties in the 2 DOJ's DRAM investigation, Infineon Technologies, Inc., to jointly 3 work on development of CellularRAM technology. Defendant Hynix 4 joined in 2005. The activities of the CWG provided the Defendants
 5 with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM;

6 f. The Die Products Consortium ("DPC") is an organization dealing 7 with, inter alia, development of strategies to enlarge the market for 8 memory die products. Samsung, Hynix, Infineon and IBM were 9 members at times between 2002 and 2004. Micron employees 10 discussed joining the DPC in April 2003 to among other reasons 11 "track" Samsung. The memory suppliers met at Hynix in California 12 on June 25, 2003 to develop standards for packing die, and agreed to 13 meet again on August 12, 2003 in San Jose, California. The activities 14 of the DPC provided the Defendants with opportunities to conspire on 15 the pricing of SRAM;

16 g. The Multi Chip Package (MCP) Consortium was formed to handle 17 issues regarding die products and MCP issues. The group held a 18 meeting in California on June 25, 2003, apparently in conjunction 19 with the DPC meeting, and again in August 4, 2004 in California.
 20 The members included Micron, Samsung, Hynix, Infineon, Intel, 21 AMD, Sharp, and Qualcom, and Elpida and Toshiba were invited to 22 join. The activities of the MPC Consortium provided the Defendants 23 with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM;

24 h. The Council on Computing Power (CoCP) is an industry group 25 dedicated to maximizing computer performance by increasing 26 awareness of RAM by joint marketing. It was created in 1999 by 27 Hyundai, NEC, Samsung, Infineon, and Micron. TAEC was added in 28 2000 and the defendants participated in CoCP meetings in California on the following dates: 3/3/00; 3/7/00; 6/12/00; 6/13/00. The activities of the CoCP provided the Defendants with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM;

- i. The World Semiconductor Trade Statistics Industry Association was formed to provide timely, accurate and authentic semiconductor market data on industry product shipments in a product line format. Cypress, Micron, NEC, Renesas, Seiko Epson, Sony and Toshiba are members; and
- j. The MultiMediaCard Association (MMCA) is an industry group headquartered in Cupertino, California and promotes standards for a variety of memory products. In April 2003, Defendants Samsung, Micron, Renesas, among others, attended meetings together. The activities of the MMCA provided the Defendants with opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM.

172. The conduct of the “business” of these organizations gave Defendants and their co-conspirators the cover needed to contact one another with impunity and to communicate competitive information, including SRAM pricing. For example, after a QDRC meeting in 2001, as the Defendants began to exchange competitive information, including pricing information, they designated the documents “QDR” as opposed to specific company names, in order to hide the identity of the company providing that information so that their price-fixing activities would not disclose the participants. These “consortium” meetings often led to separate and more private meetings at which SRAM prices and markets were discussed. This is exemplified by an e-mail sent by NEC to Micron seeking “the opportunity to shoot the breeze with you guys outside of the [February 8, 2002] consortium meeting.”

173. In a January 11, 2001 e-mail regarding the provision of pricing information on QDRC presentation materials, Jerry Johnson (Micron) states "now that we've beaten Sigma the pricing is going up."

28 174. In addition to these trade associations, Defendants also participated in many working

1 groups and attended conferences, in California, all of which provided Defendants with 2 opportunities to conspire on the pricing of SRAM. For example:

3 175. On November 14, 1997, Rahman of Hynix met with a Samsung employee in 4 California to discuss SRAM business.

5 176. On May 28, 1998, Ken Yap of Samsung had lunch in California with a Cypress 6 employee.

7 177. In December 6, 1999, Jay Ko from Samsung in Korea met with Cypress and IDT in 8 San Jose, California.

9 178. On June 12-13, 2000, a number of Defendants participated in an “exchange” meeting 10 in San Jose, California.

11 179. In March 2001, J. M. Sung of Hynix met with Infineon and ISSI (Jung Chang) in 12 California about SRAM Business and Hynix met with ISSI again in April about SRAM business.

13 180. On May 14 and 15, 2001, representatives of Micron attended a Network Processor 14 Forum (“NPF”) in Ottawa, Canada, that was also attended by representatives of Cypress and IDT.
 15 Among the issues under consideration was whether the QDR Consortium SRAM specifications or 16 those of Sigma RAM should be adopted as the industry standard. A follow-up meeting of the NPF 17 was scheduled for June 26 and 27, 2001 in Cypress’ San Jose offices.

18 181. In October 2001, J. M. Sung of Hynix met separately with both Cypress (Mario 19 Martinez) and ISSI, in California, about “SRAM product development & Market.”

20 182. On July 24, 2002, Mike Pearson (Samsung) e-mailed the other members of the 21 QDRC suggesting a meeting at Samsung on August 21, 2002—“prior to our QDR face-to-face”— 22 with members of Sigma RAM to discuss the “standardization of timings.” Pearson indicates that 23 this suggestion was prompted by discussions with members of the Sigma RAM group at the “NPF 24 Look Aside Task Group.”

25 183. On January 28-29, 2003, a number of defendants had a platform conference in San 26 Jose, California.

27 184. On July 28, 2003, Samsung and Cypress employees met in San Jose, California 28 regarding SRAM market and technology.

185. In February, 2005, NEC and Cypress met in California to exchange sample memory devices

186. On May 19, 2005, QDRC members met with Marvel in California to discuss SRAM issues.

187. Defendants subscribed to the NECX, an online market exchange for electronic components and computer systems, and the American Integrated Chip Exchange (“AICE”), a real-time commodity chip exchange, based in California, that published lists of spot prices, including for SRAM. In July 2000, NECX purchased the AICE and its RAMDEX website. Thereafter, in 2001, NECX was acquired by Converge, a California exchange founded by a group of manufacturers including HP, Agilent Technologies, Compaq, Gateway, Hitachi, NEC and Samsung. The stated goal of Converge was to reduce members’ material costs. In addition, the Defendants participated in surveys from, for example, Gartner/Dataquest’s Monthly Pricing and Procurement Project. These exchanges provided Defendants with additional outlets for shared pricing to use in their SRAM conspiracy.

188. The predominant locus of Defendants' actions in the United States which formed a contract, combination, trust or conspiracy was the State of California. Therefore, all members of the Class, whether or not California residents, are entitled to recover under California law, as well as the laws of their own states.

ACTIVE CONCEALMENT

189. Throughout and beyond the conspiracy, Defendants and their co-conspirators affirmatively and actively concealed their unlawful conduct from Plaintiffs. Defendants and their co-conspirators conducted their conspiracy in secret and kept it mostly within the confines of their higher-level executives. Defendants and their co-conspirators publicly provided pre-textual and false justifications regarding their price increases. Defendants and their co-conspirators conducted their conspiracy in secret, concealed the true nature of their unlawful conduct and acts in furtherance thereof, and actively concealed their activities through various other means and methods to avoid detection. Plaintiffs did not discover, and could not have discovered through the exercise of reasonable diligence, that Defendants and their co-conspirators were violating the 1 antitrust laws as alleged herein until shortly before this class action litigation was commenced.

2 190. As a result of the active concealment of the conspiracy by Defendants and their co-3 conspirators, any and all applicable statutes of limitations otherwise applicable to the allegations 4 herein have been tolled.

5 PLAINTIFFS' INJURIES

6 191. Plaintiffs and the Class members as defined below have been damaged as a direct, 7 foreseeable, and proximate result of Defendants' misconduct. Plaintiffs and the Class members 8 participate in the market for the sale of SRAM. To the extent Plaintiffs and Class members 9 purchase SRAM as part of a computer or other equipment purchase, Defendants' unlawful 10 conspiracy and unfair, deceptive and unconscionable practices have caused the prices at which 11 OEMs sell such SRAM to increase to supra-competitive levels.

12 192. Defendants have extinguished the market forces of competition to their mutual 13 benefit. Consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, are injured by paying supra-14 competitive prices for SRAM.

15 193. Because Defendants control the market for SRAM, there are virtually no choices for 16 consumers who require such a memory product other than buying one from entities that pay supra-17 competitive prices to Defendants because of Defendants' unlawful agreement alleged herein.

18 194. The market for SRAM and the markets for Computers and mobile phones are 19 intertwined because the SRAM market exists to serve the Computer and mobile phone markets.
 20 SRAM and Computer and mobile phone markets are united in that one cannot exist without the 21 other.

22 195. The conspiratorial conduct of the Defendants and their co-conspirators, the purpose of 23 which is to raise the price of SRAM, would, on information and belief, directly increase the price 24 of the Computers and mobile telecommunications devices. The economic and legal literature has 25 recognized that unlawful overcharges on a component normally resulted in higher prices for 26 products that contained that price-fixed component. As two noted antitrust scholars – Professors 27 Robert G. Harris (Professor Emeritus and former Chair of the Business and Public Policy Group at 28 the Haas School of Business at the University of California at Berkeley) and Lawrence A. Sullivan

1 (Professor of Law Emeritus at Southwestern Law School and author of the Handbook of the Law
 2 of Antitrust) – have observed, “in a multiple-level chain of distribution, passing on monopoly 3 overcharges is not the exception: it is the rule.”

4 196. Where as here, there are few products whose price is dependent on only one factor or 5 variable, economists have developed techniques to isolate and understand the relationship between 6 one “explanatory” variable and a “dependent” variable in those cases when the dependent variable 7 is explained by a multitude of variables—when all such variables may be changing simultaneously.
 8 That analysis—called regression analysis—is commonly used in the real world and in litigation to 9 determine the impact of a price increase on one cost in a product (or service) that is an assemblage 10 of costs. Thus, it will be possible to isolate and identify the impact of increases in the price of 11 SRAM on computer and mobile telecommunication equipment prices even though these products 12 contain a numbers of other components whose prices may be changing over time.

13 197. During the Class Period, Plaintiffs and the Class Members paid supra-competitive 14 prices for SRAM. These inflated prices were passed on to them by manufacturers, distributors, and 15 retailers. Those overcharges have unjustly enriched Defendants.

16

17 VIOLATIONS ALLEGED

18 First Claim for Relief

19 (Violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act)

20 198. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege, as though fully set forth herein, each and every 21 allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

22 199. Beginning at a time presently unknown to Plaintiffs, but at least as early as 23 November 1, 1996 and continuing through at least December 31, 2006, the exact dates being 24 unknown to Plaintiffs, Defendants and their co-conspirators entered into a continuing agreement, 25 understanding, and conspiracy in restraint of trade to artificially raise, fix, maintain, and/or 26 stabilize prices for SRAM in the United States, in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 27 15 U.S.C. §1.

28 200. In formulating and carrying out the alleged agreement, understanding, and

1 conspiracy, the Defendants and their co-conspirators did those things that they combined and 2 conspired to do, including but not limited to the acts, practices, and course of conduct set forth 3 above, and the following, among others:

- 4 a. To fix, raise, maintain and stabilize the price of SRAM;
- 5 b. To allocate markets for SRAM among themselves;
- 6 c. To submit rigged bids for the award and performance of certain SRAM contracts; and
- 7 d. To allocate among themselves the production of SRAM.

8 201. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had the following effects, among 9 others:

- 10 a. Price competition in the sale of SRAM has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated in the United States;
- 11 b. Prices for SRAM sold by Defendants and their co-conspirators have been fixed, raised, maintained and stabilized at artificially high, non-competitive levels throughout the United States; and
- 12 c. Those who purchased SRAM directly or indirectly from Defendants and their co-conspirators have been deprived of the benefits of free and open competition.

13 202. Plaintiffs have been injured and will continue to be injured in their business and 14 property by paying more for SRAM purchased indirectly from the Defendants and their co-15 conspirators than they would have paid and will pay in the absence of the combination and 16 conspiracy, including paying more for personal computers and other products in which SRAM is a 17 component as a result of higher prices paid for SRAM by the manufacturers of those products.

18 203. Plaintiffs and the class are entitled to an injunction against Defendants, preventing 19 and restraining the violations alleged herein.

20 Second Claim for Relief

21 (Violation of the California Cartwright Act)

22 204. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege, as though fully set forth herein, each and every

1 allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

2 205. Defendants' contract, combination, trust or conspiracy was centered in, carried out, 3 effectuated and perfected mainly within the State of California, and Defendant's conduct within 4 California injured all members of the Class throughout the United States. Therefore, this claim for 5 relief under California law is brought on behalf of all members of the Class, whether or not they 6 are California residents.

7 206. Beginning at a time presently unknown to Plaintiffs, but at least as early as November 8 1, 1996, and continuing thereafter at least up to and including at least December 31, 2006, 9 Defendants and their co-conspirators entered into and engaged in a continuing unlawful trust in 10 restraint of the trade and commerce described above in violation of Section 16720, California 11 Business and Professional Code. Defendants, and each of them, have acted in violation of Section 12 16720 to fix, raise, stabilize and maintain prices of, and allocate markets for, SRAM at supra-13 competitive levels.

14 207. The aforesaid violations of Section 16720, California Business and Professions Code, 15 consisted, without limitation, of a continuing unlawful trust and concert of action among the 16 Defendants and their co-conspirators, the substantial terms of which were to fix, raise, maintain 17 and stabilize the prices of, and to allocate markets for, SRAM.

18 208. For the purpose of forming and effectuating the unlawful trust, the Defendants and 19 their co-conspirators have done those things which they combined and conspired to do, including 20 but in no way limited to the acts, practices and course of conduct set forth above and the following:

- 21 a. to fix, raise, maintain and stabilize the price of SRAM;
- 22 b. to allocate markets for SRAM amongst themselves;
- 23 c. to submit rigged bids for the award and performance of certain SRAM contracts; and
- 25 d. to allocate among themselves the production of SRAM.

26 209. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had, inter alia, the following 27 effects:

- 28 a. price competition in the sale of SRAM has been restrained, suppressed

1 and/or eliminated in the State of California and throughout the United 2 States;

3 b. prices for SRAM sold by Defendants and their co-conspirators have 4 been fixed, raised, maintained and stabilized at artificially high, non-5 competitive levels in the State of California and throughout the 6 United States; and 7 c. those who purchased SRAM from Defendants and their co-8 conspirators have been deprived of the benefit of free and open 9 competition.

10 210. Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class paid supra-competitive, artificially 11 inflated prices for SRAM.

12 211. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and the 13 members of the Class have been injured in their business and property in that they paid more for 14 SRAM than they otherwise would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct. As a 15 result of Defendants' violation of Section 16720 of the California Business and Professions Code, 16 Plaintiffs seek treble damages and the costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, pursuant 17 to Section 16750(a) of the California Business and Professions Code.

18 Third Claim for Relief

19 (Violation of the California Unfair Competition Law)

20 212. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege, as though fully set forth herein, each and every 21 allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

22 213. Defendants' business acts and practices were centered in, carried out, effectuated and 23 perfected mainly within the State of California, and Defendant's conduct within California injured 24 all members of the Class throughout the United States. Therefore, this claim for relief under 25 California law is brought on behalf of all members of the Class, whether or not they are California 26 residents.

27 214. Beginning on a date unknown to Plaintiffs, but at least as early as November 1, 1996, 28 and continuing thereafter at least up through and including December 31, 2006, Defendants

1 committed and continue to commit acts of unfair competition, as defined by Sections 17200, et seq.
 2 of the California Business and Professions Code, by engaging in the acts and practices specified 3 above.

4 215. This Claim is instituted pursuant to Sections 17203 and 17204 of the California 5 Business and Professions Code, to obtain restitution from these Defendants for acts, as alleged 6 herein, that violated Section 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code, commonly 7 known as the Unfair Competition Law.

8 216. The Defendants' conduct as alleged herein violated Section 17200. The acts, 9 omissions, misrepresentations, practices and non-disclosures of Defendants, as alleged herein, 10 constituted a common continuous and continuing course of conduct of unfair competition by means 11 of unfair, unlawful and/or fraudulent business acts or practices within the meaning of California 12 Business and Professions Code, Section 17200, et seq., including, but not limited to, the following:

- 13 a. The violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, as set forth above;
- 14 b. The violations of Section 16720, et seq., of the California Business and Professions Code, set above;
- 15 c. Defendants' acts, omissions, misrepresentations, practices and non-disclosures, as described above, whether or not in violation of Section 16720, et seq. of the California Business and Professions Code, and whether or not concerted or independent acts, are otherwise unfair, unconscionable, unlawful or fraudulent;
- 16 d. Defendants' act and practices are unfair to consumers of SRAM in the State of California and throughout the United States, within the meaning of Section 17200, California Business and Professions Code;
 and

 11 practices in violation of Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 93A, §1 et seq.

16 259. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unconscionable, unfair or

18 260. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or 19 practices in violation of New York Gen. Bus. Law §349 et seq. Specifically:

- 20 a. Defendants engaged in commerce in New York;
- 21 b. Defendants and their co-conspirators secretly agreed to raise prices by direct agreement on bids to customers located in New York and through artificial supply restraints on the entire SRAM market;
- 22 c. New York consumers were targets of the conspiracy;
- 23 d. The secret agreements were not known to New York consumers;
- 24 e. Defendants made public statements about the price of SRAM and products containing SRAM that Defendants knew would be seen by New York consumers; such statements either omitted material

1 information that rendered the statements that they made materially 2 misleading or affirmatively misrepresented the real cause of price
 3 increases for SRAM and products containing SRAM; and Defendants 4 alone possessed material information that was relevant to consumers, 5 but failed to provide the information;

6 f. Because of Defendants' unlawful trade practices in the State of New 7 York, there was a broad impact on New York consumer class
 8 members who indirectly purchased SRAM; and consumer class
 9 members have been injured because they have paid more for SRAM 10 than they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful 11 trade acts and practices

12 g. Because of Defendants' unlawful trade practices in the State of New 13 York, New York consumer class members who indirectly purchased 14 SRAM were misled to believe that they were paying a fair price for 15 SRAM or the price increases for SRAM were for valid business 16 reasons; and similarly situated consumers were potentially affected by 17 Defendants' conduct;

18 h. Defendants knew that their unlawful trade practices with respect to 19 pricing SRAM would have an impact on New York consumers and 20 not just the Defendants' direct customers;

21 i. Defendants knew that their unlawful trade practices with respect to 22 pricing SRAM would have a broad impact, causing consumer class 23 members who indirectly purchased SRAM to be injured by paying 26 j. Defendants' consumer-oriented violations adversely affected the 27 public interest in the State of New York..

1 261. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unconscionable, unfair or 2 deceptive acts or practices in violation of North Carolina Gen. Stat. §75-1 et seq.

3 262. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or 4 practices in violation of the Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law, 73 5 P.S. Section 201-1 et seq. Specifically:

- 6 a. Defendants engaged in commerce in Pennsylvania;
- 7 b. As alleged herein, Defendants engaged in acts or practices that were unfair or deceptive to natural persons creating a likelihood of confusion or misunderstanding on Plaintiffs' part;
- 8 c. As alleged herein, Defendants used methods, acts or practices which mislead or deceive members of the public in a material respect about the true reasons for the price of SRAM;
- 9 d. Pennsylvania consumers purchased products primarily for personal, family or household purposes that contained SRAM manufactured by one or more of the Defendants;
- 10 e. The price of SRAM incorporated into those products was artificially inflated due to the illegal price-fixing practices of the Defendants described above;
- 11 f. The purchase price of the products bought by the Pennsylvania consumers which contained price inflated SRAM was thus, itself, artificially inflated;
- 12 g. Pennsylvania consumers reasonably believed they were purchasing SRAM-containing products at a fair and competitive price, and reasonably relied on their respective purchasing prices being established honestly by the free market, but were deceived by the inclusion of illegally priced SRAM, which was artificially inflated the price of the products they bought;
- 13 h. Pennsylvania consumers were injured by Defendants' actions.

1 263. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or 2 practices that were indirectly purchased primarily for personal, family, or household purposes in 3 violation of Rhode Island Gen. Laws. §6-13.1-1 et seq. Specifically:

- 4 a. Defendants engaged in commerce in Rhode Island;
- 5 b. Defendants and their co-conspirators unscrupulously and secretly agreed to raise SRAM prices by direct agreement on prices Defendants charged Defendants' customers located in Rhode Island and through artificial supply restraints on the entire SRAM market;
- 6 c. The secret agreements were not known to Rhode Island natural persons who indirectly purchased SRAM primarily for personal, family or household purposes;
- 7 d. Defendants made public statements that Defendants knew would be seen by Rhode Island natural persons who indirectly purchased SRAM primarily for personal, family or household purposes; such statements created a likelihood of confusion or misunderstanding with respect to the real reasons that the prices of SRAM and products containing SRAM were rising; and such statements either omitted material information that rendered the statements that they made materially misleading and confusing, or affirmatively deceived such consumers about the real cause of price increases for SRAM and products containing SRAM;
- 8 e. Because of Defendants' unlawful and unscrupulous trade practices in Rhode Island, natural persons in Rhode Island who indirectly purchased SRAM primarily for personal, family or household purposes were misled or deceived to believe that they were paying a fair price for SRAM or the price increases for SRAM were for valid business reasons;

- f. Natural persons who indirectly purchased SRAM primarily for personal, family or household purposes have been injured because they have paid more for SRAM than they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful and unscrupulous trade acts and practices;
- g. Defendants knew that their unscrupulous and unlawful trade practices with respect to pricing SRAM would have an impact on Rhode Island natural persons who indirectly purchased SRAM primarily for personal, family or household purposes and not just the Defendants' direct customers;
- h. Defendants knew that their violations with respect to pricing SRAM would have a broad impact, causing natural persons who indirectly purchased SRAM primarily for personal, family or household purposes to be injured by paying more for SRAM than they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful trade acts and practices;
- i. Defendants' violations adversely affected public policy in Rhode Island.

264. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of 9 Vermont §2451 et seq.

265. Class Members in the states listed above paid supra-competitive, artificially inflated prices for SRAM. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and the members of the Class have been injured in their business and property in that they paid more for SRAM than they otherwise would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct.

266. As a result of Defendants' violations of the laws listed above, the members of the Class in the states listed above are entitled to equitable relief including restitution and/or disgorgement of all revenues, earnings, profits, compensation and benefits which may have been obtained by Defendants as a result of such business practices, including compensable damages

1 under New York law, and damages wherever else allowed by law.

2 Sixth Claim for Relief

3 (Unjust Enrichment and Disgorgement of Profits)

4 267. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege, as though fully set forth herein, each and every 5 allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

6 268. Defendants have been unjustly enriched through overpayments by Plaintiffs and Class 7 members and the resulting profits enjoyed by Defendants as a direct result of such overpayments.
 8 Plaintiffs' detriment and Defendants' enrichment were related to and flowed from the conduct 9 challenged in this Complaint.

10 269. Under common law principles of unjust enrichment, Defendants should not be 11 permitted to retain the benefits conferred via overpayments by Plaintiffs and Class members.

12 270. Plaintiffs and members of the following Indirect-Purchaser State Classes seek 13 disgorgement of all profits resulting from such overpayments and establishment of a constructive
